A VERY LARGE JOKE.

That is What the Workmen Call Homestead's Scale.

WILL NOT CONSIDER IT.

The Regular Amalgamated Scale Will be Presented, and, If It is Not Accepted July 1, There Will be a Strike-Progress of Convention Work-Other Labor News.

The limit of time for the signing of the sliding wage scale by their employes at Homestead, allowed by Carnegie, Phipps & Co., has been again extended, from June 10 until July 1. This s considered another evidence of weakness by the men, who now maintain that the next thing to be done will be the withdrawal of the scale

At the convention of the Amalgamated Association yesterday the following notice was read by the Homestead delegates:

"Referring to the notice dated May IS, if it be our desire to remain in our employ at the Home-lead Steel Works after July I, please sign and re-train in the enclosed envelope the form of agree-ent herein contained."

The notices were signed by Carnegie, Phipps & Co., W. L. Abbott, Chairman, and had been eft at the homes of the workingren in Home-lead westerday morning. They were dishave made many enemies among the men by their actions. The latter say they will with-draw their patronage from the men, and unless other news agents are employed the news-papers will be the safferers.

Trying to Influence Families.

The fact of the notices of agreement which were inclosed in a stamped envelope addressed to the firm, being left at the houses of the men, is taken by the chiployes to mean that an at-tempt was made to lay the matter before the wives and families of the men and have them use their influence to obtain signatures to the use their influence to obtain signatures to the agreement. If such was the case the men for whom they were intended said the scheme did not work. The women are more emphatic than the men in their works are more emphatic. the men in their protestations against the scale. A case of one woman was related yesterday. She was the wife of a puddler and had made arrangements to take a Western trip to visit her relatives. She had outlined an expenditure of several hundred dollars for clothes, but when several number domains for clothes, our when she heard the news that the firm proposed a re-duction, she advised her husband to strike against it. Instead of buying herself some new clothing she paid one year's rent in advance and began to economize in view of the strike,

What to Do With the Notices. When the notices were received yesterday morning, a number of suggestions were made as to the disposition of them. It was stated that none of the notices would be signed by the men and most of them were torn up and thrown into the street. One man wanted thrown into the street. One man wanted them (about 2,000 in number) to be placed in a large box and a bondire made of them. The man further suggested that a parade headed by a brass band precede the procession.

As a body, the Amalgamated Association think the scale to be such a large joke that they refuse to take any action on it whatever. They will present their scale to the firm the same day as it is given to the other manufacturers and leave them to peruse and dispose of it as they see fit. If the scale is not signed by midnight June 30, the men will quit work and the mill be thrown idle. The employees claim there is so much money in the Amalgamated there is so much money in the Amalgamated treasury that they can afford to be idle for a year. If the firm can stand this, the employes say that they are ready to try a couple of rounds with them.

All Classes of Labor.

A feature that has been developed since the firm first announced the reduction is that every class of labor in the mills has been taken into the association, with the exception of common laborers and bricklayers. This will strengthen the organization in the mills, which gave employment last month to 2,947 men.

At the convention pesterday an application was received from the nut workers of the city to be allowed to organize under a charter from the association. A resolution was adopted protesting against the action of Chief Robert C, Elliott and Assistant Superintendent Roger C Mara. While the Amalgamated Association was passing down Fifth avenue on Saturday morning the two officials urged a Fifth Avenue Traction Company's gripman to break the procession. W. Prosser President Weihe named Re as their representative to the Paris Exposition. The convention then nominated the President, with Mr. Presser as first alternate. The afterwith Mr. Prosser as first alternate. The after-noon was wholly taken up with committee work. The friends of Stephen Madden are quietly hustling for votes for his election to the office of Secretary. Secretary Martin will probably be elected President, vice William Welbe, who will refuse to again be a candi-date. The convention will not adjourn before the middle of next week.

THE MILL SHUT DOWN.

by Graff, Bennett & Co., but latterly being run by the Millvale Iron Company, limited, were shut down yesterday afternoon, owing to a The men who caused a stoppage of work are

The men who caused a stoppage of work are those who worked at the shears, and they struck for a raise in wages. They have been receiving $1.40 per day, but demand that they get $1.60 at one plate mill, while they think that $20 per day would be proper at a larger plate mill. In consequence of this strike nearly 300 men were compelled to quit work. Most of the strikers are Hungarians.

Political Assessments Cause a Breeze in the Common Branch-Other Matters Make Some Lively Talk

Mr. Paul and Mr. McCord presented remonstrances from property holders against the occusing and widening of Williams street. A dispute hetween them regarding the signers of their respective remonstrances ended humorously, the Council voting to laave the whole matter to a committee of two, and placing Mr. Paul and Mr. McCord on that committee.

An ordinance ragulating street parades was tion of the moral tone of the whole com-munity. It is all very well to argue that rohibition is necessary, though it will not brohibit, just as a law against theit is needful, although it does not absolutely prevent stealing. Whenever I shall find in a moderate-sized city that the law against stealing has been broken 2,000,000 times in one year Mr. McCord on that committee.

An ordinance regulating street parades was opposed by Mr. Warmcastle, and defended by Mr. Keating. The former thought that no one man ought to have so much power as the ordinance would delegate. Before action could be I will agree that that law had better be removed from the statute books. The prohib-itory law was broken 2,000,000 times in a year in Boston, and I take that as sufficient evidence of its impracticability. Some felt that Council lacked information on this subject, and condemned the Board of Viewers for not responding to their request for a detailed statement. Some made eloquent appeals for property owners on Diamond street, and others urged deliberation on the ground that it was common talk about the city that the Council was always rushing into things, and spending public money without knowing what it was doing.

The second samable was precipitated by a sands. I believe the establishment of cheerful coffee houses, where men could congregate to read, smoke, play games or converse, would do more for the destruction of the saloon power than the most stringent pro-hibitory measure. The majority of men drink not because they enjoy it but because they crave sociability. They can find it only in the saloon, and their drinking is what it was doing.

ROOM FOR IMPROVEMENT. "The workings of the Brooks law been very beneficial to the city, though there is room for much expansion and improvement. I would abolish the license fee entirely, as I consider that unimportant, and thought the Council had trampled on his feelings, and with the same feeling that would lead him to aid the Johnstown sufferers he would move that Council reconsider its action.

Mr. Carnalian wanted to know what those resolutions were based on. Mr. Ferguson answered "Common report." Mr. Carr said: "It is said that Foreman Hopkins, of the Southside, was discharged for refusing to pay his assessment. He got work in a mill and was killed. That is common talk. If it is not true let us clear the skirts of the department of this charge." I would exercise still greater caution in the selection of licenses. I would have the screens removed from doors and windows, so that the saloon could be plainly viewed from without, and I would have earlier closing hours. Then, too, I would considerably reduce the number of saloons in the vicinity of the railway stations and public buildings.

There are many abuses connected with the use of property, and in urging common ownership of land the Communists make as strong an argument as the Prohibitionists. Both are mistaken in considering that the abuse of what is in itself harmless warrants its abolition. Though a heartless landlord may evict his wretched tenants, that fact furnishes no reason why every man should give up his acreage; nor should the drunkenness of one poor fool give pretaxt for the banishment of every pint of beer, wine and other liquor."

The Baltimore and Ohio people are making strenuous efforts to have everything running smoothly on the main line in the East, and each train coming in makes better time than the last. They are still carrying all the perishable freight and live stock of the Pennsylvania Railroad freight traffic, because they are making so much better time. The Pennsylvania Railroad are running their trains through to the East over the Allegheny Valley and Philadelphia and Eric lines and on an average of the East over the Allegheny Valley and Philadelphia and Eric lines and on an average of the East over the Allegheny Valley and Philadelphia and Eric lines and on an average of the East over the Allegheny Valley and Philadelphia and Eric lines and on an average of the East over the Allegheny Valley and Philadelphia and Eric lines and on an average of the East over the Allegheny Valley. No man has a natural right to commit aggression on the equal rights of another; and this is all through to the East over the Allegheny Valley and Philadelphia and Eric lines, and on an average about six hours behind the usual time. The difference in the mileage between the present and regular runs is but 97 miles, yet the train from Philadelphia due here at 11 o'clock last night was not to arrive until 6 o'clock this morning. The Pennsylvania people, however, are working hard, and expect ere long to run over the old line.
